

I am writing about Central Banking's training course: Mobile Payments and Fintech: Integration, Development and Oversight which will be taking place online from September 12 – 15, 2022.

As digital innovation takes the world by storm along with the impact of a global pandemic, consumers are calling for faster and more efficient payments.

In 2022, mobile payments services have been expanding and are increasing their stake in the payments industry. Every day, mobile payments are continuing to rapidly grow and improve the convenience to their customers.

However, as central banks are responsible for overseeing the payment system, they are increasingly aware of the need to find the right balance between encouraging innovation and consumer protection and the pressure has never been greater led by Covid-19 developments.

This course is designed to equip central bankers to meet these challenges. Each day will feature three hours of expert-led Live Content to maximise the opportunity to share and learn. I will ensure participants have opportunities to network throughout the course, with time set aside for a workshop on implementing key learnings.

Expert speakers will be joining me to cover topics such as:

- State of the industry in 2022
- Mobile payments in a Covid-19 world
- Mobile payments as a driver of financial inclusion
- Creating an enabling regulatory framework
- Identifying major risks in mobile payments

To join the course, please register online or get in touch with the Central Banking Training team for guidance on the registration process, including help with your internal approval: +44 20 7316 9136 / training@centralbanking.com

I look forward to welcoming you and your colleagues to the course this September.

Best regards,

Stephen Mwaura

Chairman, Fintech Institute & former head of national payments systems, Central Bank of Kenya